IDEAL BROILING.

Broiling can be done in the oven of the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door, more perfectly than over Gauze Oven Door, more perfectly than over the live coals.

Lay the steak, chops, ham or fish on a wire broiler or meat rack, placing it in an ordinary bake pan to catch the drippings.

Allow it to remain in the oven with the door closed 15 or 20 minutes. No turning is required. At the end of this time it will be found nicely cooked ready to serve.

THIS IS THE IDEAL WAY TO BROIL MEATS.

There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke.

There is no taint of coal-gas or smoke, and the meats are more tender and better in flavor than those broiled over the coals. The convenience or broiling in the oven will be appreciated by every house-keeper, and adds another to the many reasons why the Charter Oak Range or Stove with the Wire Gauze Oven Door should be preferred to all others now in the market.

THE INUNDATION OF CEIBA DEL AGUA.

NEW YORK, September 17.—A letter from Havana, Cuba, dated September 11, says: The great inundation of Ceiba del Agua has been the most important event of the island during the past week, and will doubtless mark an era in the annals of that village. Ceiba del Agua is situated about fifty kilometres southwest of Havana. The springs which caused the flood appeared in the vicinity of the village. They have rapidly increased not only in number but also in power, giving birth to a lake where, only a few days ago, appeared extensive and well cultivated fields. These fields were devoted principally to the cultivation of Indian corn and coffee. It addition to the destruction of the crops a number of factories were invaded by the water and their works ruined. Fortunately, no loss of life is reported. Within the village the water has, in some places, attained a height of one metre. Many families, terror-stricken, have hurriedly left the village. A large number of the inhabitants have lost all that they possessed. Money, food and clothing are being forwarded to the scene of the disaster for the relief of the sufferers. The Governor-General and the Civil Governor have visited the region inundated, and hundreds of hands under scientific and experienced guidance are endeavoring to deviate the course of the accumulated waters. Although for the present the danger is considered over, the appearance of new springs would, it is feared, cause a fresh disaster.

This event, coming so soon after the recent hurricane in the central part of the island where the loss of crops, houses and cattle was far more considerable than at first reported, has caused widespread depression and anxiety.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

Washington, D. C., September 17.—ActingSecretary of the Treasury Fairchied is of the early date to reorganize the Coast Survey Burean, which has become, as he thinks, the worst managed institution in all the branches of the Government. The continuous scandals growing out of it, he says, must be stopped. He favors a thorough reorganization with a new and competent Superintendent. If this cannot be done, he will recommend to Congress that the department be abolished. At the last session of Congress Mr. Randall was strongly in favor of refusing to make an appropriation for its further continuance, based on the ground that it was a comparatively useless institution. It has been a ness for ringsters for the past four or five years and is now worse than it ever was.

AN OCEAN STEAMER WRECKED.

New York, September 17.—A special to the Heraid from St. Johns, N. F., says: News has just been received here from Belle Isle indicating that a large ocean steamer has probably been wrecked, or has had her decks swept in a very heavy gale of wind. Much wreckage has been washed ashore in the straits. It consists of cabin doors and bedding, spars and other material. A number of dead cattle have also been thrown up by the sea, but nothing has yet been found by which to discover the identity of the wrecked vessel. Several steamshlps have sailed from Quebee for Liver.

sinck rope across the driveway is stationed to prevent all comers from trespassing upon the sacred soil of the farm. A large, easy chair is situated near by for the comfort of the trusted guardian, but it was vacated for a little while to-day. The Post-Distance representative corossed over the rope and proceeded through the grounds toward the house. When discovered by the watchman an imperative command was issued to the effect that no persons should be allowed upon these premises unless they had an order from Mr. Clevelland. You will have to get off, said the watchman, "and please don't be long about it. Drive your horse that way, and don't get on the grass."

These were about the instructions given. The farm is being enclosed with a barbed wire fence seven and one-half feet high. It would seem from this that the President intends to keep deer, but it might be construed to mean that this is to prevent newspaper men from getting at nim. Since the President has remodelled his house there is not a foot of ground within five miles of his place that is not now for sale by real estate agents. The country for miles around is dotted with sign-boards bearing the names of real estate agents to such an extent that it has a resemblance to patent medicine advertisements.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 17 .- Col. Charles S. He was the senior officer of the engineer corps when Gen. Newton was retired, but his ill-health took him out of the list of eligibles for the position of chief engineer. Col. Charles E. Blunt, who is now the ranking officer of the corps, in anticipation of his retirement for age next January, has asked for and been granted leave of absence until that time. This leaves Col. James C. SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

A Horse Instantly Killed by a Shock from an Electric Light Wire.

During the heavy rain at 6:30 o'clock last evening a peculiar accident occurred at the northeast corner of Ninth and Franklin avenue. The wires of the St. Louis Thomson-Houston Electric Light Company pass this point. They were apparently slackly strung. and during the high wind blew together. The current barked the insulating material and burnt through t he wire, which dropped to the burnt throught he wire, which dropped to the ground, charged with electricity. A few minutes later a teamster drove up. One horse stepped on the bared wire and dropped dead instantly from the electric shock. The hoof is not burned, but one of the shoes is cracked, possibly the result of the charge of electricity. Several persons who were touched by the insulated portion of the wire were singed. The team was driven by Frank Denlson, who is employed by Jeremiah Murphy of No. 2928 Morgan street. The horse which stepped on the wire was instantly killed and his mate seriously shocked.

He entered the academy at Annapolis in 1841, the year it was opened, and was among the first graduates from that institution. He served in the Mexican war and accompanied Commodore Perry on his expedition to Japan. When the civil war began Capt. Kell resigned a lieutenancy in the United States navy and entered the Confederate service. He was the executive officer of the Sumter, the first ship that bore the Confederate colors on the flames at this point, the walls and roof, and roof of the grocery warehouse fell, with a crash, nearly burying the firemen in the ruins. He entered the academy at Annapolis in not intended when built to be out more than a day or two at a time. At Gibraltar Semmes and Kell took passage for home in an East Indiaman, They were met at Nassau with instructions to return to England and take command of the Alabama, which was then being fitted up for the Confederate service under the direction of Capt. James D. Bullooh of Georgia, agent of the Confederacy at Liverpool. How that ship started on her great cruise under pretext of carrying out on a trial trip a pleasure party; how she received her crew from another ship outside, and thence proceeded to the Azore Islands, where Admiral Semmes assumed command, where her armament was perfected, and whence she sailed on her career of destruction, are well known historic facts. The Alabama made direct for the highways of marine commerce and was soon devastating Yankee shipping.

"What was your method of taking a prize?" I asked Capt. Kell.

"When we got into the commercial seas we soon began to find merchantmen. As soon as we sighted a ship we would hail her. If she didn't stop we would fire a blank cartridge across her bow. If she still refused to respond we would send a shot in front of her and that would bring her to. Our long-range guns were of invaluable service in this business. When we hailed a ship we generally had the United States flag flying and kept it up until we were alongside. There we would lower a boat and send an officer on board; but just before he boarded her the United States flag would come down and up would go the Confederate flag. Our officer would go to the captain of the ship we had caught, demand his papers, order him into the beat and bring hum on board the would go to the captain of the ship we had caught, demand his papers, order him into the boat and bring him on board the Alabama. Admiral Semmes always remained in his cabin when a capture was made, and the captains of our prizes were taken before him there. He examined their papers and questioned them closely. If the ship was found to belong to a citizen of a neutral country, a fact which the captain's papers would always reveal, she was at once released. When we discovered that we had the property of the United States, we took her officers, crew and passengers (if she had any) on board. We then went through her cargo and appropriated what we needed—for, you know, we lived almost entirely on our you know, we lived almost entirely on our prizes. When we had all we wanted we set fire to the captured ship and sailed away to look for another."

They caught him as he stepped on shore from a French passenger ship, and threw him into a dungeon heavily manacled, After this retaliation all prisoners received kind treatment on the Alabama. We replenished our crew, as well as our larder, from prizes." "Were you not afraid to trust men whom "Were you not afraid to trust men whom you had captured?"

"Oh, no. A sailor is a sailor. He has few attachments and as a general thing don't care what flag he is under. Besides, the faune of the Alabama soon made her attractive to sailors. The pay was good, and there were plenty of rich prizes in prospect. Some of our best men were taken from prizes."
"How did you get rid of the prisoners you could not use?"

An exhaustive report from Consul-General Alden, at Rome, upon the emigration of Italians, made in compliance with departmental instructions, has been received by the Secretary of State. The majority of emigrants are drawn from the rural districts, being farm laborers, shepherds and peasants. portions of the kingdom, and also no assisted emigration.

"The Italian Government does nothing to prohibit or restrict emigration. Its attitude is slowply that of watchfulness to prevent the raindling or deceiving of ignorant persons. The large number of Italians, who have found what is for them lucrative employment in the United States, have in the past few years greatly influenced the direction of emigration from Italy.

influenced the direction of emigration from Italy.

"Emigrants from the northern and central portion of Italy, both men and women, are sober and industrious and, as a rule, trustworthy and moral. They are generally strong, powerful workers, and capable of enduring great fatigue. A less favorable view can be taken of the emigrants from the southern districts and Sidiy. These are the most illiterate parts of Italy, and in these districts brigandage was for many years prevalent. The men are frequently hot-tempered and quarrels often end in bloodshed. They are, however, seldom addicted to drunkenness and the women are regarded as chaste. Contrary to the prevalent opinion that the Southern Italian laboring classes are lazy, they are like the rest of the Italians, a hard-working and industrious people and endure hardship and adversity with great patience."

Miss Oelrichs as Diana. From the London World. Mr. Bradley-Martin, who rents Balmacaan, Lady Seafield's family place in the Glen Urquhart district of Inverness-shire, together with the deer forest and grouse moor, which are among the best in the Highlands, has this season increased his sporting ground by renting from Lady Seafield the capital moors of Lochletter, which "march" with Balmacaan, and extend to some 13,000 acres, making up a total of over 60,000 acres of shooting. Four guns shot on Lochletter on the 12th, and bagged 69% brace of grouse in a few hours. The birds are strong on the wing and in good condition. The deerstalking at Balmacaan commenced last Tuesday, when Col. Jay of New York and his sister-in-law, Miss Oelrichs, went out in the forest, and each killed a fine young stag. This is a rare feat for a lady to accomplish. Miss Oelrichs shot her stag with all the savoir faire of a veteran stalker, and her name will assuredly live in the memories of the foresters and keepers in Glen Urquhart. The deer are rather backward, so there will be no more stalking till September 1. Mr. Bradley-Martin has lent Lochletter house to Lady Alfred Paget and her daughters for a few weeks, and they are to reside there during September. Mr. Bradley-Martin, who rents Balma-

From the London Truth.

It is a rare, if not an unprecedented, feat for a lady to shoot a stag dead, after a fair stalk, at her first attempt, but it was achieved last week in the Dowager Lady Seafield's forest of Balmacaan, Invernessshire, which is leased by Bradley-Martin, (sig) of New York, the Diana being an American lady from New York, Miss Delrichs, who proved her nerve and her accuracy of aim by shooting the beast right through the heart. From the London Truth.

How They Do Things in Alaska. From the Portland Oregonian.

We have seen a copy of what purports to be a proclamation by the Governor of Alaska reciting the allegation that certain "ill-disposed been making "disparaging remarks and injur-ious insinuations" against an Indian woman, niece of the head chief of that region, and warning all such to "cease their slanders, under penalty of summary arrest, fine and imprisonment."

ANTI-SALOON.

Senator FRYE of Maine, Senator BLAIR of New Hampshire, ex-Senator WINDOM of Minnesota and other leaders of the Blaine Republicans held their National Convention of Anti-Saloon Republicans at Chicago yesterday, and promulgated the platform with which they propose to head off the St. John stampede and to unite the Republicans and Prohibitionists everywhere else as they are united under Mr. BLAINE's personal control in Maine, Iowa and Kansas.

The platform which is put forth to accomplish all this opens with a denunciation of the liquor traffic as "the enemy of society, the ally of anarchy, a school of erime." etc., and concedes every argument of the extremest Prohibitionist in favor of prohibition. It then proceeds logically enough to 'declare war against the saloon," and to proclaim it "the supreme duty of the Government" to adopt such measures as will "at the earliest possible moment extinguish it altogether." As the best practical method of port their own non-conformist ministers dealing with the liquor traffic the platform further proposes absolute prohibition by the National Government wherever its power extends, prohibition amendments to the State Constitutions wherever the people can be induced to adopt them, and the enactment of local option laws, as the next best thing "until such amendments are adopted." Finally the platform demands that the Republican party shall take a firm and decided stand "in favor of this policy and these measures," and pledges the members to do their utmost to cause the party to take such stand. All temperance men are therefore asked to join in the effort to hold the Republican party true to this platform. As the Republican party in Maine, Iowa and Kansas was long ago firmly bound to this platform, and as the Prohibition States are always Blaine States in Republican conventions, this movement explains tself. It is a Blaine stratagem, devised and executed by ardent Blaine men, whose ourpose is to make Republicans and Pronibitionists everywhere mutually dependent on each other, and both on BLAINE, as they have been for twenty years past in his State. We shall watch this movement in the next National Republican Convendslon of American Wheelmen-600 men in line.

PENSION FACTS.

In a recent interview with a Cincinnati Enquirer reporter Speaker CARLISLE referred to the fact that we are paying $76,750,000 a year in pensions on account of one war which lasted but four years. while all the other civilized nations on the earth are paying in the aggregate less than $60,000,000 a year in soldier and sailor pensions. They maintain huge armies that do more fighting and make more widows, orphans and cripples every decade than our armies have made since the birth of the Republic, yet we are paying 25 per cent more war pensions than Russia, Germany, Great Britain and all the European powers put together. When asked if he would not add that our pensions are all paid to only one-half of From the Philadelphia Record. our country, Mr. CARLISLE said: "No, I have nothing of that kind "to say. Democrats and Republicans were alike eager to vote these appro-'priations." The magnanimity with which the victor States have treated the vanquished in our war has been nobly reflected in the cordial unanimity with which the crippled and unpensioned soldiers of the South have voted has ever exhibited such a spectacle of magnanimous reconciliation as both sides have shown in healing the wounds of our internal war, and the facts referred lemogogues who pretend or intimate that Southern or rebel opposition is preventthreatens to make a full confession. THE Bulgarian Sobranje seems to be doing its best to serve the country, but there is evidence of a little inconsistency when it assures Prince ALEXANDER of the horror with which "the whole nation has regarded the disgraceful plot against him." and, in the same address, prays the Almighty to grant the Czar a long and happy life, and lays at his feet the devotion and fidelity of the Bulgarian people. Since the plot against ALEXANDER is believed by the Bulgarian masses to have been the secret work of the Czar, it is not probable that they will be very lavish with the devotion and fidelity which the Sobranje so confidently promises.

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "There is little in this antisaloon movement as thus far conducted to give encouragement to those who are really anxious to see the Republican party take a definite and decided stand on the liquor question, a stand that can be logically defended and practically maintained. Those whose object is absolute prohibition, immediate or ultimate, might as well betake themselves to the Probibition party at once, for it is morally certain that the Republican party will not take that ground, and cannot do so without reducing itself to a hopeless minority."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "The resolutions adopted at the anti-saloon convention in Chicago yesterday ought to be satisfactory to the most exacting temperance man. Faitfully supported, they will accomplish more for the temperance cause than can possibly be attained in any other way. There is something practical in this movement, which is in striking contrast to the third party delusion."

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Great Minds at Variance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: In your last evening's issue of the Post-DISPATCH I notice an article where John J. O'Neill expresses his feelings towards his coworker in Congress, Hon. John M. Glover. I say co-worker, where the work to be done is entitled to the support of an honest representative of the people; where the object in view is the interest of a millionaire or the special object of feathering the nest of any private individual at the expense of a working public, in such cases it is opposition that may be expected, not assistance, from Hon John M. Glover, who ably represents the workingman. ected, not assistance, from Hon John M. lover, who ably represents the workingman, e commercial man and millionaire, justly dhonestly, according to their requirements. If the Hon. J. J. O'Neill expects to gain the test of the Knights of Labor in his district by posing the Democratic nominee in the Ninth vote of the Knights of Labor in his district by opposing the Democratic nominee in the Ninth he will find he will be mistaken in the men he has to deal with. The honorable gentleman will perhaps have enough to do to take care of himself in his own district without interfering in any other. The Ninth District and its interests will be carefully watched by its honest and fearless representative, Hon. John M. Glover, without the assistance of any man who is liable to be found on both sides of the fence.

As a member of the Knights of Labor I would suggest that J. J. O'Neill straddle the fence, bridle his tongue and take care he may not get left on the Knights. Yours respectfully, ONE OF THE KNIGHTS.

A Venerable Nuisance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: of the rights of the people. I take the liberty of addressing you and invoking your aid to rid a suffering people of what is becoming daily a more insufferable nuisance. I refer to the Poplar street track, that bane of the traveling public who have occasion to pass to and from the north or south part of the city. Last night the north or south part of the city. Last night we had a repetition of the usual class of wreck on this track, resulting in the demolition of one building and the partial destruction of another, besides the serious injury sustained by two men. Now, Mr. Editor, if you will take a ride on the Fourth, Fifth or Sixth street cars any time across the Poplar street track you will be delayed from five to ten minutes at the crossing by the lowering of the bars now erected there. How long is our city to be thus cut in two by this track? By giving this a place in your valuable columns, which are not controlled by Jay Gould, you will assist in ridding a suffering people of a nuisance which some night they will rid themselves of by force, if necessary.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon a general con ference committee composed of representatives from the Eighth and Ninth District Congressional Committees and the General Execgressional Committees and the General Executive Committee of the Republican City Central Committee, met at Republican City head-quarters, 208 North Eighth street, to prepare a report on the subject of city, Congressional, Representative and Senatorial primaries and conventions for submission to the Republican City Committee which meets at the same place at 8 o'clock to-night.

At a meeting of the Central Committee heid last week it was informally agreed to hold the primaries for the various conventions on the same day and September 28 was suggested as the date, the conventions to be held as follows: City on the 30th inst. These dates were not fixed and it is probable that they will be altered at this afternoon's meeting. not fixed and it is probable that they will be altered at this afternoon's meeting. The general impression prevails that the primaries and conventions will be held before fair week if it can be so arranged. The only obstacle in the way of holding all of the primaries on the same day is the doubtful attitude of the Ninth District Congressional Committee. The politicians are all at sea on the question of what the committee wants and are likely to remain so until after the committee has met and formally declared itself. Chris. William Busch, attorney-at-law, was the Court this morning in a case charging John attached to the boiting contingent at that time.

Very naturally, it is argued, Foerstel would like to get back again, and the tactics pursued by him as Chairman of the Congressional Committee are supposed by some to be but a dodge resorted to by Foerstel to show his strength. This may be true, and is certainly credited by a number of Republicans; but to-day's developments rather throw Foerstel in the shade as a factor in the situation, and bear out the presumption that, together with the balance of the hoodium crowd, he is but obeying the will of a superior. Last Night's Reception.

The dedication of the headquarters of St. Louis Commandery last evening was a grand affair. The inclement weather kept many at home, and the attendance was not as large as had been expected, but the entertainment was thoroughly enjoyable nevertheless. After a promenade concert by Postlewaite's band, when all the guests had assembled, Eminent Commander Jack P. Richardson mounted the stand and made a brief speech. He then introduced Judge J. J. Lindley, who spoke at some length. He was followed by Thos. E. Garrett, who read an original poementiled "The Mystic." Following these ceremonies the guests were invited to the dining hall on the floor above where they partook of a bountiful supper. The dining hall has been beautifully decorated with flags and banners. At one end of the hall is the word "Welcome" in immortelies, and at the other the inscription "Eat, Drink and Be Merry."

IMPORTANT TO GENTLEMEN

ered dots and fine plaits are very fashionable in New York and London.

A Powerful Performance of Vir The storm vesterday afternoon and evening had a detrimental effect on the audience at the Grand, as on all others, but it made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers. The Virginius of Mr. James was a veritable triumph which artistically has scarcely been surpassed. The role was superbly filled in surpassed. The role was superbly filled in voice, figure and action, and the rendition not only held the audience deeply interested from beginning to end, but at times electrified it with spiendid bursts of intensity and power. Mr. James' Virginius is not faultless, but it is more—it is great. Miss Wainwright's Virginia is a charming and strong piece of work and the performance of these two in the play makes the performance full of interest. The last opportunity to witness "Virginius" will be given to-morrow afternoon at the matinee. To night "Much Ado," with Miss Wainwright as Beatrice and Mr. James as Benedick, will be given, and the engagement will close with the double bill, "Merchant of Venice" and "Katherine and Petrucchio."

Rice's "Evangeline" opens at the Grand Sunday night. The Mazeppa of Jennie Lee at the Standard is meeting with fair success. The "Parlor Match" will furnish amuse-ment at the Olympic for three more perform-mates only.

Matt Morgan's pictures of the war give excellent entertainment in a realistic and artistic way at Pope's.

Soi Smith Russell, the inimitable entertainer, comes to the Olympic next week in a new play with new songs and sketches.

Fannie Louise Buckingham in addition to regular evening performances will give mat-inees to-morrow and Sunday at the People's. nees to-morrow and Sunday at the People's.

A number of friends of Mr. Chas, Pope will tender him a banquet at the Lindeil to-morrow to bid him God-speed in his re-entrance to the stage. Mr. Pope has been busily engaged driling his company, and will be ready for the opening on Monday night in Virginius. His repertoire, which was announced yesterday, is a strong one, and good support is promised. The box office is now open for the sale of seats.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, September 17.—Wm. S. Davis and Eliza Jane Mesher were married fifteen onths ago in the Centenary M. E. Church of Newark. Davis' parents disliked his wife, but the young couple lived happily. There was but one drawback to their bliss—the lack of an heir to their possessions. Mrs. Dayis desired a daughter. Seven months ago, like Charles Reade's heroine in "The Terrible Temptation," the wife whispered a "glad secret" to him, and set her house in order for a guest. It has since been learned that she visited Elizabeth, Jersey City, New York and Brooklyn in search of a recently born infant. Then she visited the Superintendent of the Children's Society in Newark, and told him a plausible story. Marie Agnes Fleming had given birth to a girl, and as she could not apparently provide for her offspring he resolved to get the little one for Mrs. Davis. He told Mrs. Davis, August 16, of his plans and that lady seemed very desirous of taking care of the little one. On the night of the family event. Mrs. Davis sent her husband and signed the necessary papers for its safe keeping and future welfare. One of the neigh bors determined to verify or disprove her doubts. A doctor's carriage was seen to roll up to the door of Mrs. Davis' house. At 1 o'clock the husband returned home and was then informed that he was the father of a little girl. He was delighted. He quickly informed the neighbors, but they seemed to be jealous at not having been called in and that jealousy was the cause of the mother's downfall. They set inquiries afoot and one more inquisitive than the others saked to see the child. When she saw the little one the next day she said: "Why, that child is at least two weeks old." "Not at ail. she saw the little one the next day she said:

"Why, that child is at least two weeks old."
Not at all. It was born last night," said the supposed mother.
"It know what I am talking about," was the quick response. 'I have raised a family of my own and I have experience enough to know the difference."
Davis did not know of the controversy and the first intimation he received of the truth was when his shopmates began CHAFFING HIM ABOUT THE BABY.
Then he learned the story. There were tears and protestations, but finally the truth came out and Davis was almost broken-hearted. He implored his wife to take the baby back to the place whence it came. This could not be done, as admittance was refused at the hospital, and the superintendent declined to interfere in the matter. The husband resolved to get rid of his unwelcome burden. On Friday last he disposed of his household effects, and told his wife he was going to give up housekeeping. On Monday he sent Mrs. Davis to Yonkers, where he was anxious to spend a couple of weeks. Just as the guilty woman reached her destination she received a letter from her husband telling her that he had decided to leave her and would not again live with her. Davis said he would seek employment where she could not find him and would begin life anew. Mrs. Davis started for this city and found that her husband bad done as he intended. He was not to be found. Wednesday Mrs. Davis came to this city to dispose of the child, since which time she has not been seen. It is believed that she would dispose of it at some of the charitable institutions in the metropolis.

"I am satisfied," said Mr. Yutman, Superintendent of the Children's Society in Newark, "that Mrs. Davis got the child with the full knowledge and consent of her husband. Mr. Davis' mother came here and threatened me with all kinds of trouble unless I took the child back. The affair had gone beyond my jurisdiction, and so I told her. Mrs. Davis never told me anything about her husband, beyond the fact that both he and she would be ple

SOUTHERN PASSENGER TRAFFIC. General Reduction of Bates From New York to be Announced.

New York, September 17.—A move affecting passenger traffic from New York to the South and Southwest will be made to-day by the Commissioner of the Trunk Line Pool, who will announce a general reduction of from 54 to 57 to all Southern and Southwestern points. This is caused by the fact that the Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Air Line has grown restive under continued cuts made by the Baltimore & Ohio via Cincinnati, and in recognition of the rights of the Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Road, this reduction is allowed by the trunk lines. The new rates will be: New York to New Orleans, $35; Atlanta, $20 and other points on a similar basis.

The completeness of the fittings and the economy of fuel are the strong recommendations of the Home Comfort Wrought Iron Ranges, which are displayed about the center of the west side of the east nave. THE UNION PACIFIC. President Charles Francis Adams en Route

Adams, President of the Union Pacific, was in the city yesterday on his way to Omaha. Mr. Adams expressed himself as very well satisfled with the present volume of business being done by the road, the Nebraska system showing quite an improvement since the ist of August. The Transcontinental traffic, although in excess of last year from that territory, was most unsatisfactory in regard to the rates thereon, which were ruling at about half the regular tariff. He had no idea as to when a compromise would be reached or a pool renewed, the matter having dropped out of sight. Mr. Adams was pleased with the prospect of peace given by the recent reorganization of the Western Traffic Association, but not having as yes thoroughly digested its provisions, he was not prepared to express any opinion as to whether the Union Pacific had gained or lost ground by the new deal. Mr. Adams will remain in the West for six weeks or more, during which time he will thoroughly inspect the Union Facilic and all its branches, including the Oregon Short Line. fled with the present volume of business being

If the opinion of betting fraternity argues anything then cular Australian will defeat the brown skinned sculler of St. Louis and retain his old upon the first place in the catalogue of the world's oarsmen. From London acc of the struggle between Beach and John Teemer it would appear that the former is really a wonder on the water, and that if he does not treat Gaudaur in an identical way he will set a pace so hot that America's reprein him to save himself from defeat. The hold betters and generous in the matter of odds, have clipped their wings to the tune of six to five certainly shows that their opinion of Gaudauris by no means a bad one. These odds fall a trifle short of the anticipations of the Americans, and in particular the St. Louisans, who pooled a large sum calculating that English recklessness would throw out something like three to one or even two to one against their favorite. American odds are the same as the English, although many bets in which even money has been laid have been booked in St. Louis. Old watermen at Boston and Pittsburg have announced themseives on Gaudaur's side. The result will be announced in the Post-Disparch of to-morrow with a full account of the great event. er of odds, have clipped their wings

A WICKED LIE. The Report that Mr. Gould Married Mis-Kingdon in London.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. New York, September 17.—An afternoon paper published yesterday something which purported to be a letter written in London and beginning with the words: "George Gould was not married for the first time last evening." No attempt was made to explain how a letter from London could reach New York in a little more than twelve hours. Mr. and Mrs. George Gould and Mrs. Kingdon are now at Lyndhurst, but Mrs. Gould's maid knew enough to prove the falsity of the yarn.

"It's a mean, wieked, horrid lie!" she declared vehemently. "Mr. George proposed to may lady in London, and I saw with my own eyes the magnificent engagement ring which he gave her. It was a sapphire as big as the second joint of my little finger, and on either side of it was a great sparkling diamond. It's all nonsense about their being married there, and Mr. George did not send his valet or anybody else to engage apartments for us. Mrs. Kingdon engaged the rooms herself. They were in a private hotel, Smith's. on St. James street off Piccadilly. They were not magnificently furnished at all, but, on the contrary, were quite plain and stuffy, like all the other rooms over there. My lady had any number of pretty rings, but from the day Mr. George gave her the sapphire, she put the others away and never wore any other."
"Did Mr. Gould and Mrs. Gould read the little more than twelve hours. Mr. and Mrs.

"Did Mr. Gould and Mrs. Gould read the papers the morning after the wedding?"

"Indeed they did," replied the little maid.
"The first thing in the morning they sent me out and told me to buy every paper I could get. I came back with a double armful and Mr. George and my-lady sat on the sofa and read them every one. You never heard such laughing and foking in your life. Then Mrs. Kingdom read them; but she didn't laugh haif as much as the young folks did."
George Gould and his bride kept themselves apart from the curious world last night by retreating to the pleasure-ship Atalanta, which lay at anchor opposite Lyndhurst, on the Hudson. The customary warning signal lanterns in the rigging were eclipsed by the piercing shafts of white light that burst from every port-hole, pencilling with radiant lines the black surface of the water. Faint music, as if from a plano, rippied shoreward at intervals during the evening, but there was no encouragement offered to guests. Did Mr. Gould and Mrs. Gould read the

Although they have not been on the warpath for over two years, they have always been very troublesome, and have been among the Indians of Arizona. For this reason the Government concluded to remove them from the reservation to some place where they could give no trouble. Accordingly about a fortnight ago, Col. Wade, who is now in charge of the party, rounded them up in the White Mountain reservation, a portion of the San Carlos reservation, Arizona, and took them to Ft. Apache. From there they were taken to Holbrook, on the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road, where a special train was taken. They left Ft. Apache they days ago and reached Holbrook on the Ith inst. both companies deny that the war has cnanged in its features since the Laclede lowered its price to $1 in all the sections where the Watergas service pipes were laid. The Laclede took the aggressive position in the beginning. It has since been on the defensive RECENTLY THE WATER-GAS PEOPLE have offered to make connections with houses using Laclede gas and furnish them at 50 cents per thousand. This cut has not been met, but it has not created a great failing off in the Laclede business, for the Water-Gas people have not enough pipe laid to seriously affect their antagonist. But if extensions continue a cut to 50 cents would cause the Laclede to pass dividends. How long this fight will continue is a small problem upon which those who are on the inside do not waste much thought. Of late Laclede stock has been boomed largely, hanging about 110. This has been understood to be caused by the certainty that the company would be taken into the Gas Trust. When the Trust was formed the Laclede remained out, opposing itself to the three consolidated companies—8t. Louis, Carondelet and Water Gas. The reason it did not go in was not given out, but the principal stockholders manifested such antagonism to the Trust had developed into a solid monopoly, it was understood the pool of Laclede stock negotiated for admission. There was some difficulty about this, and the Water Gas has stock negotiated for admission. There was some difficulty about this, and the Water Gas has

with the very evident intention of driving the Laclede into the Trust without advantage. For some time there has been an advertisement in the papers of a meeting to be held by the stockholders of the Laclede on the 21st inst., to vote upon a proposition to increase the capital stock of the company from $1,600,000 to $2,500,000. This, a gentleman connected with the Gas Trust says is an effort to secure the company good terms when it surrenders. The stockholders will place a new valuation upon their plant to bring the amount paid in up to the increase of capital stock, and will expect to get into the Trust on the basis of $2,500,000 stock at par. When the Trust was formed the St. Louis put in 10,995 shares at $275 per share, a total of $3,023,625; Carondelst, 4,670 shares at $50, and the Water Gas Company went in on a valuation of $500,000 on its plant, aggregating $3,757.175 paid into the Trust. This valuation was increased to $5,000,000 which is the capital stock of the incorporated Trust. The admission of the Laclede at par after its increase would necessitate an increase of stock, and it is questionable whether the present owners of Trust certificates would be willing to admit the company when the probability of a reduction of dividends to present holders would result. There is an opening here for some of the peculiar tacticts which were seen in the gas warduring last winter, and the next months will be filled with negotiations until finally the complete monopoly of St. Louis gas interests is formed.

Hope was, however, revived when large wells were opened in Ohlo, and when the well was discovered by the Van Vleck brothers near Litchfield, Ill., the local manufacturers became sure that natural gas could be found near St. Louis. at some length by W. E. Barns of the Age of Steel. He had made a personal examination of it and spoke understandingly.

"Natural gas is not a new thing in Illinois. For more than twenty years it has been utilized in a smail way in Champaign, La Salle, Coles, DeWitt and Montgomery Counties. It may be traced in springs and well-borings from Ogle County in the northern part of the State, to Coles and Clark Counties in the southeastern part of the State, a distance if 160 miles. In general terms the gas wells of Illinois may be divided into two fields which are separated in location and distinct in sources of supply, the Champaign County and the Litchfield field. The presence of gas in the Champaign field has been known since is 184, when it was discovered northwest of Urbana while digging for water, at a depth of 63 feet. A few years later, it was struck south of Champaign at a depth of 63 feet. The pressure in these wells was not above ten pounds per square inch. The gas from these and other wells in the same locality was used as fuel in farm houses. The life of several of these wells was in the neighborhood of two years, the flow gradually decreasing from the filling of the tubes with sand and mud. Within the last two years other wells have been discovered north of Urbana, which are remarkable as giving very much the largest supply of any wells in the county, perhaps more than all others combined. The pressure is about twenty-five pounds to the square inch through a 24-inch pipe open at the lower end. A company was incorporated in 1885 to furnish gas from this field for heating and lighting in Urbana, but nothing has been done in a practical way as yet. The chief, if not the sole gas bearing stratum in this vicinity, is a dirt bed from 3 to 12 feet thick at a depth of 70 to 90 feet; this layer contains leaves, sticks and oid trunks of trees, together with a fine sand. It is highly probably that the gas is due to decomposition of the organic matter in this dirt bed. The gas is odorless, colorless, has but little THE GAS AND OIL WELLS sunk.

THE GAS AND OIL WELLS
in the Litchfield district are confined to a tract of land near Litchfield, in Montgomery County, about fifty miles northeast of St. Louis. They are included, as far as developed, within an area of 180 acres, lying to the south and east of Litchfield, and are less than one and one half miles from the city. They are located on a rich and slightly rolling prairie which slopes off to the south in the direction of a small creek. Some five years ago while boring for coal a heavy black lubricating oil was found in comparatively small quantities at a depth of 700 feet.
Little or nothing was done towards pushing the discovery to its legitimate outcome until it attracted the attention of the Van Viceb brothers, experienced and successful prospectors for oil and gas in the Pennsylvania regions. After a thorough inspection of the Litchfield district they determined to bore for oil and it was while sinking a well for this purpose that a strong flow of gas was struck at a depth of 643 feet in a layer of white pebble sand. It is said that when first struck the pressure in this well was 560 pounds to the square inch. The boring was continued to 800 feet, where a large vein of salt water was encountered, which finally drowned out the gas.
Boring was at once resumed in the same field and in all ten wells have been put down.
Of this number two are dusters, two have been abandoned, from three a fine quality of lubricating oil is being pumped, while gas is being used from three The depth of the lowest and best stratum of sand or sand-rock is between 640 and 700 feet and is about 30 feet in thickness, having slate above and below. Three distinct strata of gas-sand are found, one at 310 feet, the second at 440 feet, and the third at 666 feet. The entirs supply of gas which is now being used for lighting and heating purposes in Litchfield comes from the No. 10 well which was struck early last June. This well is 666 feet deep, the gas being from the theird or lowest stratum thus far discovered."

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST REV. ABRA HAM D. MARTINE OF MANHASSETT.

the Pastor with Criminal Assault - Mr. Martine Takes Prompt Steps to Prove His Innocence - Investigation by Leading Members of the Consistory-Contradictory nts Made by the Hutchings Girl.

Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. NEW YORK, September 17 .- The Rev. Abra ham D. Martine was called to take charge of the Dutch Reformed Church at Manhassett four years ago. The church is one of the oldest and wealthiest on the north shore of Long Island, and the pastor's salary is $3,000 a year. Mr. Martine took his wife and child with him, and after a temporary sojourn in a house in the village of Manhassett, went out to the old parsonage to live. The building is an old-fashioned two-story wooden cottage, and stands 100 feet back from the main road to Port Washington. It is just a mile north of the church and no other houses are near by. A Company. That gentleman, however, takes the church and no other houses are near by. A Martine soon became popular. Many people, not members of his church nor regular attendants at services, went to hear him preach. HE WAS WELL LIKED, and people of all denominations speak of him as a frank, honest, upright man. Late in February of this year Emma Hutchings, a February of this year Emma Hutchings, a brown-halred girl, went to live in Pastor Martine's household as the only servant. She was then 14½ years of age, but looked much older. Her father, Gus Hutchings, sometimes attended services at the Dutch Reformed Church, and her mother and married sister have been members of the church for years.

Intelliging family live on the Port Washington road, only half a mile from the parsonage. The pastor's family thought a good deal of her, and when she occasionally went home for a few hours she told her mother how well the family treated her. Early last May Mrs. Martine made a three weeks' visit to her relations in New Jersey. When she returned home in New Jersey. When she returned home there was nothing unusual about the household, and before the end of June she went with her husband on his vacation trip of one month. Emma Hutchings lived at home in hold, and before the end of June she went with her husband on his vacation trip of one month. Emma Hutchings lived at home in the meantime. Some time in July she visited her aunt, Mrs. Phobe Hutchings, at Roslyn, five miles away. None of the Hutchings family could remember the exact date yesterday. Emma told her aunt that on two nights while Mrs. Martine was away Mr. Martine had entered the room where she slept and ASSAULTED HER.

predict that the elders will dismiss the charge. One thing is certain, that the sympathy of Manhassett people is largely with the pastor. Gus Hutchings told the POST-DISTATCH reporter that he intended to bring criminal proceedings against the pastor. On the other hand, friends of the accused clergyman say that he is seriously considering the propriety of bringing suit for libel against the Hutchings family for circulating the story. It is certain that ever since Emma Hutchings confession has been made public, Pastor Martine has been investigating her previous character. The Hutchings family are not wealthy or influential, but they have always been honest and of good repute.
